

National Educator

Pat Alderman

Pat Alderman is a business owner, entrepreneur, educator, and an award winning quilter. For nearly a decade, Pat has partnered with quilt shops, companies and individuals in her successful and rewarding career, while helping others attain their goals. Pat believes her passion for quilting has empowered her to inspire others to find and nurture their creativity by combining the timeless art of quilting with the continued growth of computerized technology, creating quilts that are not only masterpieces or heirlooms, but also our beloved, everyday quilts. Pat's effective teaching skills bring understanding to the heart of each quilter, ensuring clarity of information and the easy use of technology.

Pat has had the good fortune of winning many awards, including Best of Show for quilting and sewing, along with helping many of her customers achieve recognition and awards for their quilts. Pat enjoys traveling, playing piano and she loves to cook (because she loves to eat!).

Pat holds a BA degree in biology, geology, math and chemistry from the University of Nebraska-CSC. Pat resides in Florida.